PARISH NOTES.

The Rev. Gilbert Hunter Doble having been licensed by the Bishop to act as Assistant Curate at Quorn, made the public declaration of his conforming to the doctrine and system of the Church, on Sunday, May 28th, and was able to give valuable help at the largely attended Communion at Whitsuntide. It is uncertain when Mr. Doble will be able to come to work here permanently. I am looking forward very much to his help. He is unusually well qualified from a scholastic point of view. He was educated at Clifton College, was a scholar of Exeter College, Oxford, where he took his degree with 2nd class honours in History in 1903. Since then he has been at Ely Theological College. I am sure a kind welcome awaits him when he comes to live amongst us.

Having occasion to make enquiries in the matter I find that there are at least 25 different views of Quorn made into post cards and sold in the village! By means of these little pictures I know views of the old home are being sent to former parishioners quite at the other end of the world.

Who is the oldest man in regular work in the parish? I think I know, and alas! he is at present laid low in hospital. We will hope that his enforced rest for a few weeks may brace him up to go on with his honest and very honourable course.

[In writing the above I forgot another dear old friend, who is 75, and is to be seen at work every day upon the roads. He surely is the oldest at work!]

I expect to be away from home in the early part of July. On July 13th I shall have been back home for 12 months, and am most thankful for the good health that I have enjoyed. During my absence if the services of a clergyman should be required, a message should be sent to Mr Herbert, the Clerk, who has directions to procure such assistance without delay.

Arrangements are being made to hold the SCHOOL TREAT on Saturday, July 22nd.

On Tuesday, July 25th, there is to be a Special Anniversary Service of the Mothers' Union in the Rural Deanery at All Saints, Loughborough, at 3 p.m. Mrs. Kelcey would like to organize a party to attend, and will be glad if those who wish to go let her know beforehand.

It is quite remarkable how many names at present known at Quorn occur in the portion of the Registers printed this month (for the years 1612-1613). Out of the first five we still have four, viz. — Allen, Ball and Stevenson. Besides these names Taylor, Farnham, Harris, Swan, Brown, Tompkins, Johnson, Hutton, Turner, Shaw, Roe (no doubt the same as Rue), Smith, Brewin, Gamble, Warner, and Sculthorpe and Fippes only lately gone. Is this remarkable after nearly 300 years!

SHOULD OLD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOTTEN?

On June 6th, at Derby, there died after a long illness, Sophia (formerly Pilkington) wife of Stephen Adcock, aged 24, leaving two little children. Buried at Derby Cemetery.

EMMA PILKINGTON, who is blind, would be glad to repair cane-seated chairs. North's Yard, Quorn

PARISH NOTES.

While I was away in July I was stopping in a little place that has recently sprung up by the sea side near Folkestone in Kent. The place contained about 504 inhabitants, and it belongs to a parish the rest of which lies about a mile and a half inland in much higher ground. Unfortunately the beautiful old Parish Church was more than a mile from this sea-side part, and also half a mile from the other centre of population. It stands in a beautiful position, but with scarcely a house near it and with the great bulk of the population at least half a mile away! I found the practical inconvenience when there was a long dusty hill to be climbed everytime one went to Church on a hot summer's day! I happened to see a similar case in the same district. In other places about there (and indeed it is often so in quite rural places) the population is scattered about sometimes as much as two miles from the Church. How hard under such conditions must it be for Church life to be maintained! And how happy are we in this respect, with the Church in the very centre of the parish, and surrounded within a few hundred yards by the great bulk of the inhabitants. How well our little Church should be filled under these conditions.

Another reflection concerning our own little Church occurred to me as I rode about the country. One naturally turns to the Church as the most interesting thing in most places, and having viewed it from the outside, one is anxious to see the interior, and it is often a disappointment to find all the doors locked! In one ride I visited 5 Churches, and found two open and three shut. This made me think that we ought to have our Church left open all day, or at least between the times of service. There is of course some risk of danger or loss through leaving a Church open and unguarded, but it is worth while to run that risk so that those who desire to see it should not be disappointed.

One hopes too that the open Church might be sometimes used by parishioners as a place for quiet religious reading and prayer, which are more difficult in a crowded and noisy home.

What a blessing might our Churches become if they were generally used in this way!

Any new arrangement will not of course be made until the Churchwardens and Church Committee have been consulted.

All that has been written above is suitable to introduce the first notice of our Dedication Festival.

S. Bartholomew's Day falls on Thursday, August 24th, and that day and the Sunday following will be specially observed.

On Sunday, 27th, there will be Choral Communion at 8 a.m. as well as Communion at 7.

The long continued drought is very serious. I write (July 24th) the signs of change of the days seem passing away, and there seems to be of rain. This district seems to have suffered in a special way. In Kent I heard complaints of much rain that had fallen at the very time when we were suffering for lack of it.

It would have been sad indeed if the weather had broken up and spoilt the School Treat, at the Grammar School Sports in June! Happily, however, had a beautiful afternoon, and the Sports, Games, and Tea seem to have been admirably organized, and have given great pleasure.

It will be seen from the accounts (published last month) that the Treat last year cost £14 11s. 6d. and there were 125 subscribers to the Sunday School Fund.

PARISH NOTES.

QUORN ON A BANK HOLIDAY.

Surely the greatest change brought about in the outward life of our parish during the last 50 years has been the opening of the Great Central Railway, with the New Station at the Woodhouse end of the parish. Barrow Station is of course at no great distance, especially from the Kennels end of the village, but from the centre of the village the G.C. Station is considerably nearer. I have made careful measurements and find the distances from the Cross, by road, as follows:—To Barrow Station by Soar side just over 1½ miles (2660 yards); going by Loughborough Road and Barrow Lane, it is about 200 yards further. To Quorn G.C.R. Station from the Cross, by Loughborough Road, just over 1 mile (1780 yards); by Meeting Street, just over ¾-mile (1380 yards).

By footpath there is less difference. From Quorn Cross to Barrow Station, 1 mile and 170 yards (1930 yards); to Quorn Station (G.C.R.), not quite $\frac{1}{2}$ less (1530 yards). It should be noticed that if we want to walk from the Cross to Quorn Station, it is 150 yards nearer by road, by Meeting Street, than by the footpath opposite the Grammar School, and out at Blind Tommy's gate.

Some more distances shall be given later, but we were going to consider the difference made by the coming of the G.C.R., and that is due, I fancy, not only to its being nearer than Barrow, but to other causes as well. It gives a shorter run to Leicester by about nine minutes, and what makes a difference also is that the line runs through much prettier scenery. There is nothing so pretty on the Midland line all the way to London as the run between Quorn and Rothley, and this one point I am sure helps to attract people to use the line. The houses lately built at that end of the parish of course would never be there but for the new line. Of the eight houses already inhabited, from six people go every day to Leicester, and from one to Loughborough.

But how does the line especially affect us on Bank Holidays? Three ways occur to me. First—A new means is afforded of getting away to the sea-side and other places of popular resort. In particular Skegness, which used to be difficult to get at from here, is now easily reached through Nottingham. Besides the runs N. and E., a whole new district is opened for holiday summer traffic. Trains are run to Oxford, and so on South to Southampton and Portsmouth, and the sea-side places in Kent and Sussex. So by this new means of travelling, more of our people are carried off at Bank Holiday time.

A second effect is the lessening of the heavy excursion traffic along the great main road. The great brakes loaded with holiday folk, that used to run through morning and night are hardly seen now. At least three quarters of this heavy traffic has left the road. The reason is plain. Quite half of the people who went through were going to Woodhouse Eaves or other parts of the Forest, and now that the G.C. line comes within two miles of the most popular part of the district, viz., the Hanging Stone Rocks, people go by the rail instead.

But a third effect is quite as noticeable at holiday time, which is this, that since the new line was opened large numbers of Quorn people on a holiday walk up that way. Many more of the younger folks go up to Woodhouse Eaves where there are sure to be thousands of people about, which of itself makes change and excitement, which young people like. But besides this I have been interested to notice how many people go up in the afternoon and evening to see the trains arrive, and watch the visitors. Riding round that way one meets party after party of neighbours, which makes it very pleasant. I love to see the hard worked father and mother taking a quieter holiday with their family, and such can be seen by the dozen up the Central Station way on a Bank Holiday. One sees the interesting young couples with the first baby in the new pram. Then the larger parties, with pram, not quite so smart, but now heavily loaded with two babies perhaps, and the next youngest generation a lift as well. All this is very pleasant to see to who loves the place and people, and it could not be seen in anything like the same plenty before the new line came. One is glad to think of people enjoying themselves in all kinds of ways, far and near, those I think are the most to be envied who are happy in the quiet and restful companionship of those they love, and who love them.

The first difference that I notice on the morning of a Bank Holiday is that I do not meet the same stream of people as I go to and from Church. Day after day, except on Sundays, one greets the same people, but then comes the holiday, and one misses them. Perhaps some of them started very early, and are a hundred miles away. The thought has occurred to me, why should I go my round when all others are on holiday making? This thought was specially in my mind last Whit Monday, and an answering thought came for which I was very thankful, and which I think will make a difference to me all my life. On Whit Monday I was tired after the extra work of a Festival Sunday, and going into Church I thought, why should I be here this morning, perhaps no one will join me—everybody else is off on holiday or preparing to go. But as the mind wandered away to these people in the excitement of holiday time, so far away in all directions, God put the thought in my mind that all the more should I be at prayer and praise in the old Church on behalf of those who give less thought than usual to such things. Perhaps if I, their Pastor and friend, be earnest in prayer, they will be protected from dangers to body and soul which specially beset them in holiday time, and they will have the happier holiday.

And then there came to mind a passage at the beginning of the story of Job, where it tells how he, finding least his children had been careless in the time of their feasting, himself arose up early and made offerings for them—(Job i. 5). So may my morning and evening offering of prayer and praise in the old Parish Church be accepted with God for the forgiveness and blessing of my people, absorbed in work or pleasure for His mercy's sake in Christ Jesus.

Here are some more distances in and about the parish (repeating some already given):—

- Cross to Barrow Station, by Soarside, just over $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles
- " " by Barrow Lane, 200 yards further.
- " " by Footpath, 1 mile and 100 yards
- Cross to G.C. Station, by Loughborough Road, just over 1 mile.
- " " by Meeting Street, just over $\frac{1}{2}$ mile.
- " " by Footpath, 200 yards further.

- Cross to Corner by Mr. Bates's, 300 yards.
- Corner of Gas House, 550 yards.
- " the end of Houses in Wood Lane, 700 yards.
- " Houses beyond Cocklin Wood, 1900 yards.
- " Quorn and Mountsorrel Boundary, 1660 yards (1 mile all but 100 yards)
- " Barrow Lane turn, 500 yards.
- " Woodhouse Lane turn, 900 yards.
- " Parish Boundary by Bull-in-the-Hollow, 2300 yards (100 yards over $1\frac{1}{4}$ mile).

From the above it can be seen that a person coming by road from Loughborough to Leicester will enter Quorn at the Woodthorpe turn and leave it at Mountsorrel after travelling just $2\frac{1}{4}$ miles.

If a straight line was drawn across the parish from Pilling's Lock to the Reservoir it would measure nearly 5000 yards, that is over $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles.

The area of the parish is 2120 acres. The outline is very irregular. Thus, though the parish extends to the Woodthorpe turn, and includes the house and grounds of Quorn Lodge, yet Mr. W. Wright's house, 'One Ash,' is outside the parish, only a strip of his grounds, near the road, being in Quorn. And to take another instance:—Though Barrow Bridge is partly in Quorn, yet the land over the river opposite the Coal Wharf is in Barrow, the river being the boundary between the parishes. Thus measuring from the Cross the furthest point in the parish is 2500 yards. The nearest out of it, (just across the river by Stafford Lodge) is only 500 yards.

NOTICE.—The last payments in the Clothing and Coal Club must be made on the first Monday in October (2nd) when all cards must be brought in.

The Harvest Festival will be held as usual in connection with Michaelmas (Sept. 29th).

A very remarkable statement by one of the Physicians at the Medical Congress, held at Leicester in July, should be widely known. It occurred in a Lecture delivered by Dr. Bulkeley Hystop, on July 27th.

He said:—That it should be their object as teachers and physicians to fight against all those influences which tended to produce indifference or intemperance towards religion. Of all hygienic measures to counteract disturbed hope or depression of spirits he would undoubtedly give first place to the simple habit of prayer. Its effect on the mind was more beneficial than any other therapeutic agent known.

On the same day, in another section of the Congress, some very extraordinary statements were made about the use of alcohol. The Chairman is reported (Standard, July 28th), to have said:—'that alcohol was known to be a definite poison of the most dangerous and insidious character.'

According to the report other speakers were very emphatic in their condemnation of the use of alcoholic drinks.

SHOULD OLD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOT!

On Aug. 5th, William Waldram Brown (son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, of Quorn), was married at Christ Church, Broadway, New York, America, to Gladys Jordan, of Barrow-on-Soar. The ringers at Quorn rang a short peal when they heard the news, in honour of a former member of their band.

I have received an interesting letter from two more former parishioners who left Quorn for America a few months ago. They are at present at a prairie town called High River, in Canada. The letter speaks of meeting many English people, and often hearing Quorn spoken of even so far away as that!

SHORT ACCOUNT OF THE QUORN HUNT.

ONE of the oldest institutions of Quorn, if not the oldest, giving the village a world-wide fame, has during the last month departed to new quarters. I think that it is worthy of a few words—I mean the Quorn Hunt establishment. It has left Quorn several times before, but has always returned. Once under Lord Southampton it was removed to Belgrave; again under Sir Henry

Goodricke it was established at Thrussington; and once more, under the Marquis of Hastings, it took up its quarters for one season at Donington. This time it seems hardly likely that it will return, as it has entered on newly built and superior quarters at Barrow, in an equally central position for hunting the country, and with far greater facilities for breeding and rearing hounds,

No one regrets the necessity for the breaking of old traditions and historical continuity more than the owner of the old kennels, but the necessity came, as anyone may see who looks at the situation of the old premises. They were practically in the Village, adjoining street and footpath (the latter passing through the grounds). The condition too of the old buildings is such that a large sum must have been laid out on them if they were to have been continued in use. They occupied about one acre, the New Kennels, &c., occupy ten acres.

Let us take a parting look at the age and history of the old place.

About 1750 Hugo Meynell bought Quorn Hall, and established a pack of Foxhounds. He married a Miss Boothby, whose father had kept hounds at Tooley Hall, in what is now the Atherstone country. Meynell is called the father of Fox Hunting, and was a great sporting celebrity. He entertained large hunting parties, and hunted a great stretch of country from Market Harborough to the Trent, including a large part of Nottinghamshire. He hunted the country till 1798, when his son Hugo took the hounds for two years and lived at the Hall, his father living at Meynell Lodge, which Capt. Hartopp and Forester have used occasionally of late years. In those days Quorn was a great place for hunting men, the Duke of Bedford and many other noble Lords living in the village for the hunting seasons. In fact it then occupied the position that Melton now does. Melton first became a sporting centre through a certain sportsman finding Quorn too gay, and wishing to find a quiet spot selected Melton! He found his selection a good one, being able to hunt with the Quorn, Belvoir and Cottesmore, and not keeping his secret, others soon followed him.

The great Quorn Masters have been Meynell, Assheton-Smith, Osbaldiston, and Sir Richard Sutton.

Meynell had created such a reputation for the country that sportsmen aspiring to fame were most anxious to become Masters of the Quorn, consequently many strangers became Masters, and there have only been three or four Leicestershire men in the long list of Masters. Meynell himself came from Derbyshire.

Osbaldiston, commonly called the Squire, was a great sportsman, and made a bet to ride 200 miles in ten hours, which he accomplished at Newmarket well within the time.

Sir Richard Sutton kept a splendid establishment, and hunted seven days a week, having two packs out on one day. An old retainer of his is still living in Quorn.

Several noted Huntsmen have distinguished themselves with the Quorn; possibly the oldest that any present inhabitant may remember being Dick Burton, who was buried in Quorn Churchyard, and on whose grave a fox was killed very shortly after his interment.

Tom Day came to Quorn in 1805, and died about 20 years ago. He used to start with his pack on a Sunday afternoon, and kennel them at Billesdon, for hunting what is now Mr. Fernie's country, on Monday. This was in Sir R. Sutton's time, making up the seven days a week previously mentioned.

Frank Gillard was several seasons with the Quorn before going to distinguish himself with the Belvoir.

Tom Firr is too recently in your memory to require many words, but he was the most noted Huntsman of his day, and carried the horn for the long period of 27 years with this one pack.

Ben Capel, the present Belvoir Huntsman, is a Quornite, and served his apprenticeship here.

Much more of course might be written, but space will only allow to express this parting wish that the glories of the Quorn may be in no way diminished by the transfer to their new home.

PARISH NOTES.

Though I was away from home at the time yet I know what a deep impression was made on the parish by the very sad circumstances attending the death of our friend and fellow-parishioner Mr. William Stevenson, of New Quorn. Owing to the care now exercised in all places where powerful machinery is in use, it is seldom that serious harm happens to those employed amongst it. The terrible suffering that the poor fellow must have endured after the accident is very distressing to think of. The family may feel assured of the sympathy of all of us. Personally I shall miss him very much, for our regular round of duty caused our paths to cross nearly every day, and many a pleasant greeting passed between us.

The Clothing and Coal Club Cards taken in on Monday, Oct. 2nd, will be made up and returned on Oct. 9th, at the Schools at 12.

Mrs Kelcey's Mothers' Meeting will be resumed at the Vicarage on Monday, Oct. 23rd, at 2.30. New members will be welcomed.

The following is a careful copy of a portion of the ancient Parish Registers preserved at Quorn Church. Where marks are put thus — the writing has been indelible. Sometimes the entries are in Latin, thus 'filius' and 'filia' are put for 'son of' and 'daughter of'.

PARISH NOTES.

CLOTHING AND COAL CLUB.—It is time that the Clothing Club adopted this double name, as it now does a considerable business in coals. For instance there have been distributed 46 tons amongst the members of the Club, as well as £230 worth of Clothing. The Club was founded 56 years ago, in 1849, as appears by the Minute Book still in use. I have not been able to find any accounts earlier than 1867, when the Club had been going 18 years. It is interesting to compare some figures in the accounts then with those at the present day.

In 1867 there were 84 depositors, this year 256, (Note that now there are enough cards issued to place one in just half the houses in the parish). In 1867 the amount paid by members was £87, and there was added for bonuses on deposits £16 7s. This year £237 has been paid in, and £35 12s. bonuses paid out.

The balance sheet for the year cannot be given till next month.

Information for those who have not got cards.—
Three kinds of cards are issued.

Subscribers' Clothing Cards, obtained through ladies or gentlemen who subscribe, earning a bonus of 4/- if 16/- or more is paid in by regular weekly payments.

Free Clothing Cards, which are issued by Mr. Kelcey in the name of the Club, bearing interest at 1d. in the shilling on regular weekly deposits up to 30/-.

Coal Cards, to be obtained from subscribers. If 8/- or more is paid in 2/- is added as bonus.

If there should be any widows or persons with large young families who are not yet receiving the full benefits of the Club, they should let Mr. Kelcey know and he will do his best to get their wishes satisfied. He will be at the Schools on Monday, Nov. 6th, at 12, for the purpose of hearing such requests, and issuing fresh cards. It is hoped that all old members will renew their cards before that. First payments taken on October 30th.

Mr. Frisby wishes it to be known that the Simple Lectures on Natural History Subjects for Boys will be resumed on Thursday evening, Nov. 9th, at 7 o'clock. The attendance last year was so large that the boys will this year be divided into two sets, who will come on alternate weeks. Boys 8 to 12 will begin on Nov. 9th. Boys over 12 will only be admitted by tickets, which must be obtained beforehand from Mr. Frisby, free of charge.

The Lectures are held at the Mills Institute, kindly lent by Messrs. Wright & Sons.

I am grateful to the Church Committee for the readiness and interest with which they have taken up a suggestion which I made to them that one or more SOCIAL GATHERINGS should be held in the Village Hall during the winter. Our wish and intention is to afford opportunities for friendly intercourse to those who often meet together for worship.

Our desire is that the gathering should be as simple and informal as possible, and that people should be able to move about and converse. We shall not all sit in one place as at a tea, a meeting or an entertainment, but be able to sit or move about as we feel inclined. We propose to hold the first gathering on Wednesday, Nov. 15th. The evening will open with an address (given this time by the Vicar of Barrow), which may be followed by two or three short songs. After that refreshments will be handed round.

I am sorry that it has been considered necessary to make a charge of 6d. for the tickets of admission, which of course will include the refreshments. The size of the Hall will not allow us to admit persons under the age of 16, but any younger than that have been confirmed will be welcomed among our fellow Church people.

I sincerely trust that Church people will encourage us by their presence on this occasion. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Committee, or from the ladies who distribute the Magazines.

As usual on the first Sunday in Nov. (within the octave of All Saints), a special service is taken to revive the memory of our dear friends and predecessors. The affectionate remembrance of the departed has always been encouraged by the Church.

In the afternoon a MEMORIAL SERVICE will be held from 3 to 4 o'clock, to consist of prayers, hymns, and reading of scripture with address suitable to the subject.

This may afford an opportunity to some who not usually assemble with us for worship to commemorate those who have gone before us in the old Church, around which so many of them helped.

I propose to give the address myself this time, making some special references to the old Registers. I will make arrangements so that the oldest volume of these Registers shall be on view in the Church that afternoon in a way that all who care to do so may be able to see it quite clearly.

There will be collections at morning, evening, and afternoon for the Fund for keeping the Church in order.

N.B.—I shall not be able to take any part in that afternoon (Nov. 5th).

John Dexter and his friends desire to thank those who kindly contributed to the fund collected by Mr. Miller and Mr. H. Gamble for his assistance during his long illness. The list was carefully gone through by me and the sum came to £8 18s. 6d.

PARISH NOTES.

QUORN PARISH MAGAZINE, FOR DECEMBER, 1905

The December Magazine comes with a double anniversary, the beginning of a new Christian Year on Advent Sunday, and the end of the Secular Year on the 31st.

Of the former division only I speak now. What a blessing it ought to be that by the ancient custom of the Church the very weeks and months as they proceed recall a round of Christian teaching. The influence of this system must be felt beyond the range of the Church itself. Surely many pious Non-conformists must also follow the seasons such as Advent, Christmas, Lent, Passiontide, &c, with religious interest. I trust that the seasonable teaching contained in our Magazine is read and welcomed by many such people. But now when another year of Christian teaching and worship is closing it is specially to the point for us Church people to enquire what use have we made of the religious opportunities that have been offered us? Day by day and Sunday by Sunday, the Church has been open for united gathering to show our Christian fellowship one with another as well as our faith in God. All through the year—the Sacraments have been administered, Prayers said, Scriptures read, Sermons preached. How have we taken our share in and profited by these helps to a holy life which God by His Providence through the Christ has provided for us? Each year of holy teaching and worship should find us more Christ-like in character and less worldly in our thoughts and habits.

And now the same round begins again with the old Advent cry; Christ has come! Christ is coming again! Let us begin again with a good heart, and good hopes and resolutions that this year shall be a little more carefully kept a little more profitably employed and at its close find us not only nearer to our end but nearer to God!

Let us take heed lest through wilful neglect or carelessness we harden our hearts against God's frequent calls to repentance and holy living.

Two items only are repeated from the bills that have been lately issued.

On Wednesday, November 29th, (being the day of Intercession for Foreign Missions), at 7.30 p.m. Address by the Rev. T. Stone, Vicar of Barrow.

On Thursday Evenings in Advent (not Wednesdays) December 7th, 14th, and 21st, at 7.30. Addresses by the Rev. E. L. Simpson, Vicar of Christ Church, Mountsorrel.

I have received the following written on a post card Quorn, November 21st, 1905. Rev. Sir, "What has become of the beautiful old Hymns and Tunes (A. & M.) that used to be sung in our Parish Church?" Parishioner.

I am not quite certain what it means but I suppose the writer would imply that we do not choose often enough the older hymns that have been known and loved for a long time. I always thought that we had these sort of hymns very often. In fact I have been accused of showing too great fondness for the old hymns. As one gets older that fondness increases and if I could choose simply what I liked myself I should keep almost entirely to the same old hymns. But I have to consult others, and rightly so, and it would not be right for me to have my own way entirely; for the choir and others would get very tired of singing the old hymns again and again. But I always slip in one of the old favourites when possible. And I must say that I think that this influence can be plainly seen. Thus; looking back at the Hymn papers for four recent Sundays during which 24 Hymns were used (not counting the Children's Service) I find among them 154, 184, 160 (twice), 176, 228, 220, 254, 231, 23, 215, 4, 546, 57, 546, 257. I take these all to be old well established hymns known to all Church goers, such as certainly should come under the denomination of "beautiful old hymns and tunes". To say the truth I don't see how there could well be more without excluding less known ones altogether.

But perhaps I have mistaken the meaning of the post card. I suggest that the person who wrote it should come and see me and explain. I am sure that I and those who work with me would be only too glad of practical hints in the difficult matter of choosing hymns and will accept helpful criticism in the most friendly spirit.

After a considerable interval arrangements have been made for the holding of a Sunday afternoon big Lads' Class. Mr. Adams has for years taken such a Class in the morning, but for the last three years or so there has been no regular teacher for the afternoons. This important work has now been taken up by Mr. Frederick Seal and the Class met at the Vicarage for the first time on October 29th. The last two Sundays there have been thirty present which shows that Class meets a real need. Fresh members are welcomed—Lads who go to work only, attend Sunday afternoons. Our room is very full and sadly want a Parish Room for such purposes.

The same might be said of the Mothers' Meeting in the same room on Monday afternoons.

A moderate sized Church Room that would be one hundred, at a pinch, but would yet be comfortable for thirty or forty would be a great boon. I think we may count on a site on Baum's Gardens and that the Churchyard enlargement has been well provided for, for the present, we might soon be to raise funds for a Church Room. Perhaps a Working Party now meeting on Wednesdays in Village Hall might do something towards this. This party itself illustrates the need of a Church Room. It is too large for the room at the back of the Hall, but too small for the large Hall itself. None however keep away on the ground of accommodation—that shall be arranged all right. A or two more may be said about the Working Party. It meets at 2.45 on Wednesday afternoons. A description is asked from those who attend, according to their means, to pay for materials, etc. The object in view is to hold a Sale of Work next year to raise money for some parochial object, but to meet the wishes of myself and some others it is understood at the same time a separate stall will be held for Foreign Missions.

At Barrow they have a Church Room of excellent size and style opposite the Vicarage and close to the Church though their National Schools are close by.

The large attendance at our Social Gathering Wednesday, November 22nd, may almost be said to have been a misfortune. Two hundred and fifty seven bought tickets and almost all must have come. Though the chairs were set as far apart as possible there was little room to move about which it is desired should be done. There was also difficulty in serving the refreshments though ample provision was made. This being the first occasion of such a Gathering on so large a scale some little hitches were certain to occur, yet I have heard nothing but expressions of satisfaction and enjoyment on the part of those who were present.

At the end of another year of Magazines I appeal to all who can afford it to give a subscription to funds besides their 1d. per month. Keeping up the Magazine on the scale we do cannot be done without extra help as will be seen in the accounts to be published next month.

To all readers—I wish a Happy Christmas.

EMMA PILKINGTON (blind) in North's Yearly Quorn, is grateful for cane work sent her and will be glad to receive more.
